

Struthers Parkinson's Center

As a national leader in Parkinson's care, Struthers Parkinson's Center (SPC) provides world class treatment, rehabilitation and support services, wellness programs, education, and research to help patients and families navigate life with Parkinson's.

Struthers also utilizes a team-based approach to provide targeted physical, social and emotional care.

Thanks to the generosity of donors and volunteers, Struthers gave people with Parkinson's and their families support they need to live well with Parkinson's disease.

Grateful for care received

A loved one's diagnosis of Parkinson's comes with many feelings, but rarely is it a feeling of being prepared. Your gifts help patients like Alice and their caregivers get the support they need.

When Alice was diagnosed with Parkinson's, her husband and caregiver, Ed, didn't know what to expect. "Right away we were able to attend a class called Parkinson's 101 through Struthers," Ed said.

With gifts like yours, Struthers Parkinson's Center is able to provide ongoing classes and support groups, so patients and caregivers are equipped with the information they need for any stage of life with a movement disorder.

"Later in her diagnosis, Alice started taking Parkinson's-specific exercise classes and I've been going to a caregiver support group," Ed shared. "It's great to hear others' stories and swap ideas— I'm not sure what I would've done without my group."

824

new patients with Parkinson's

222

visits for team-based specialized care

454

CREATE Connection
virtual and in-person visits

507

people registered for educational conferences

To learn more about the impact of your support, visit: parknicollet.com/impact