

OHPE Update:

A Newsletter for Residents, Students,
& Clinician Educators

July 2021

From the Office of Health Professional Education

A new academic year brings a lot of changes, including new colleagues, goals and opportunities. The New Resident Orientations that started last month marked the beginning of the 2021-2022 academic year, welcoming new residents and fellows into our programs. Meet some of our new residents and fellows in Hand Surgery and Dermatology training programs.

Are you looking for information about a particular program? Find our updated 2021-2022 program contact list here.

Our annual list of residents and fellows rotating at HealthPartners for the academic year (for example, 2021-22 covers the academic year from 7/1/21 - 6/30/22) is also available on myPartner. Please note, for the most up-to-date information on a specific resident/fellow rotation, you should contact the appropriate program coordinator.

Upcoming events and reminders

Nominate a colleague for the March of Dimes Heroes in Action Award!

Nominations are due August 1. Heroes in Action is a night to honor those who make a difference in our communities every day. Learn more here.

Celebrate OHPE/ GME Administrative Professionals Day

We are excited to celebrate Training Program Administrative Professionals Day, a new annual day dedicated to recognizing the hard work of coordinators and administrators of health professional education programs. The annual day will be celebrated on Aug. 20 this year and is organized by the Association for Hospital Medical Education.

Here's a special opportunity to express your gratitude for these colleagues in your life!

Bias training available to all colleagues on myLearning

The Bias Learning Series is designed for all colleagues to participate in and learn more about how bias impacts our work, and what to do to minimize its impact. Start the Bias Learning Series now by completing the Code of Conduct training, then visit myLearning to sign-up for a Recognizing Bias session at the end of July. Visit myPartner to learn more.

New anti-racist clinician affinity group

- Clinicians now have the opportunity to join an anti-racist affinity group that will work to examine whiteness and collectively dismantle racism in our health system and beyond.
- This group is intended for clinicians who identify as white, but all are welcome; its intention is to build community, instigate rigorous self-reflection, and center anti-racism in a manner that does not unfairly burden our colleagues of color.
- The group's first meeting will be from 12:05 to 1 p.m. on August 5.
- Please register here ahead of time to receive a link for the meeting.

OHPE Announcements

Zeke McKinney, MD shares his experience at OHPE Unplugged

Each month, colleagues share experiences in medical education from across our organization during our monthly OHPE Unplugged sessions. Michelle Noltmier, RN, BSN, MBA, facilitated our July session with Zeke McKinney, MD. In addition to his varied roles in medical education, Dr. McKinney is a COVID vaccine champion working with local communities to coordinate the Shots at the Shop project, an initiative of the Biden Administration designed to get 1,000 or more Black-owned barbershops and salons to help improve COVID vaccination rates in their communities.

Learn more about the project here.

OHPE Unplugged is a monthly faculty development series for clinician educators to connect, build community and share best practices in the areas of teaching and learning, scholarship, professionalism, leadership, well-being and diversity & inclusion.

New strategic partnership to streamline and enhance student clinical experiences

A new strategic partnership between HealthPartners and select Advanced Practice Clinician (APC) schools will ensure that students train at dedicated training centers where preceptors have the passion, skills and time to train among inter-professional teams enacting best practices. The APC partners demonstrate alignment with HealthPartners values, workforce needs and commitment to provide high quality and equitable care to our patients and community. Our APC team has begun the work of developing these strategic partnerships, cohorting fewer students over a longitudinal period, facilitating recruitment, and streamlining administrative support. Our goal is to design a sustainable model for the future. Learn more about the strategic partnership here.
