

Our organization's better-for-you pledge

Establish a culture of worksite food well-being

Better eating is a great way to improve and maintain employee health, which can result in fewer medical claims and increased productivity. To improve the health and well-being of your employees, commit to better-for-you choices in the worksite.

Our commitment to better-for-you worksite choices:

Our organization will follow the below food-related guidelines (select, add or remove as necessary to ensure policies are applicable to your goals) to ensure the better-for-you choice becomes the easy choice for our employees.

- _____ percent of worksite vending machines (food and beverage) will be stocked with better-for-you choices.
- We will offer, label and promote better-for-you choices on a daily basis in our on-site cafeteria.
- We will promote and make better-for-you choices available at catered events and meetings where food is served.
- We will prominently display or position better-for-you options so employees can quickly and easily access them.
- We will price better-for-you options competitively to encourage selection.
- We will host an on-site farmers market and/or drop site for community supported agriculture (CSA).

The above guidelines will be effective _____

These guidelines will be reviewed annually. Review date: _____

Name: _____

Title: _____

Signature: _____ Date: _____

For more tasty tips and useful resources, visit yumpower.com.