

Depression response at 12 months

The percentage of patients with depression who reported fewer or improved symptoms twelve months after starting treatment. This is known as "response," because it means you are responding to the treatment prescribed by your doctor. High treatment response rates can be a sign of strong clinic performance in depression care.

Page 1 of a 2 Page Graph

Depression response at 12 months

The percentage of patients with depression who reported fewer or improved symptoms twelve months after starting treatment. This is known as "response," because it means you are responding to the treatment prescribed by your doctor. High treatment response rates can be a sign of strong clinic performance in depression care.

Page 2 of a 2 Page Graph

